Suburban woman makes pancake portraits of celebrities

By Mike Fansler November 15, 2011

Since sifting through dull newspapers, hyperbolic blogs, and overflowing RSS feeds for meaningful news can be an arduous process, News Net catches and compiles both the amusing and the significant reports that were overlooked throughout the weekend. Here are some things to think about as the work week begins.

- Artist Katherine Kalnes from LaGrange, Illinois has used her creative talents to create four celebrity portraits with pancakes. She used Batter Blaster, which is pancake batter in a spray bottle, to create some tasty renditions of Justin Bieber, Ellen Degeneres, Kelly Ripa, and an especially striking portrait of Stephen Colbert mounted upon a bald eagle with American flag-patterned wings. Upon learning of Kalnes' artwork, Bieberholics immediately descended and devoured the pancake pop singer, then immediately regretted it and wepted for hours until someone told them the pancake wasn't really Justin Bieber.
